Several Reasons for Losses Received at Meeting of the Executive Committee.

BILLS FINALLY ALLOWED

SMALL SUM REMAINS AFTER AC-COUNTS ARE SQUARED.

Several reasons why the G. A. R. executive committee failed to receive any substantial revenue from its grand stand concessions were heard yesterday by the executive committee, at the conclusion of which the bills of Wilson & McDonald, the contractors, were allowed.

This firm constructed the reviewing stand at the Monument corner, the extension in front of the Z. C. M. I. and the stand for the living flag at Seventh south street. In addition they obtained the concession for the grection of the public grand stand at Seventh South street.

The contract bid for the original construction of the grand stands for which the committee was to pay was $1,180. Additions and alterations made necessary an added expenditure of $611. Both bills the committee yesterday allowed. substantial revenue from its grand stand

One of the reasons assigned by the contractors for the failure to make the stand play a profit was that there had been a great deal of criticism concerning the Safety of the stand. Several people who knew nothing of the construction of grand stands, according to the contractors, complained that the stands were unsafe and as a result people who otherwise might have patronized the stands failed to do so. To allay these fears the contractors were put to the added expense of adding more timbering, although they said that this was worse than useless, since the adding of more timber, instead of strengthening these stands, really weakened them. The criticism of the stands, it was declared, put both the contractors and the committee both the contractors and the committee to a needless added expense.

Another reason for the failure to make money on the grand stands was ascribed to the confusion and misunderstanding of the public as to the locations of the stands. The reviewing stand and its ex-tension at South Temple and Main streets of persons sought to buy seats in the re-viewing stand and its extension, but were refused because the seats were all reserved for invited guests. The street cars were not running and the people were unable to get from one end of the street to the other to reach their proper grand contractors for the failure to have a can-vas stretched above the stand occupied by the children of the living flag, the lack of which is said to lave been the cause of the prostration of so many children There was no provision for a canvas cov There was no provision for a canvas covering for this stand in the contract, but the contractors had agreed to put the canvas in place if the committee would furnish the piping and the canvas. Owing to the plumbers' strike, the committee was unable to procure the piping. The contractors then attempted to put the canvas in place by means of wooden uprights, but it was found that there was grave danger of the canvas coming down grave danger of the canvas coming down on the children and causing a disastrous stand enterprise and the additional cost of construction, the committee yesterday found that after paying all bills in connection with them it had left of its $2,000

PRESIDENT HAS ENDORSED PLANS

Arrangements Made to Entertain the Chief Executive Are Approved.

President William H. Taft has en- now dorsed the scheme of entertainment ar- and Seth E. Thomas. ranged for him on his vist to Salt Lake, Sept. 24, 25 and 26, and now the work of enlarging on the program will be pushed. A meeting has been called for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the office of Governor William Spry, when the general plans for the enter-tainment of the president will be gone over and more details aranged defi-

An important feature of the program

An imbordant reature of the program will be the mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Utah Republican league at which John Hays Hammond, president of the league, will speak on the work of the organization in which the president is also greatly interested. J. Suell Smith, national organizer for the league, will be Selforganizer for the league, will be in Salt Lake for two or three weeks before the organizer for the league, will be in Salt Lake for two or three weeks before the president and Mr. Hammond arrive, and arangements will be made for a general rally of representatives from each of the Utah clubs in the league while President Taft and the president of the national league are in Salt Lake.

The president will be accompanied by a party of prominent Utahns from the time he crosses state line until he leaves the state to continue his fourney. time he crosses state line until he leaves the state to continue his journey through Idaho, Washington, Oregon and then continue the loop through the south and back to Washington.

Though most of the hours of the president's stay in Salt Lake have been arranged for, it is probable that a few more features will be added in the general scheme of entertainment. Members of the Ohio society and of the Yale alumni in Salt Lake want to show the president a royal welcome for a short time at least, and representatives of these organizations will be present Saturday afternoon to take a part in outlining the program.

Many Animals Attacked With Fatal Disease and Die Quickly.

Provo. Aug. 19.-Wholesale deaths among the valuable herds of milch cows pastured in the lake bottoms here are continuing unabated and local cattle owners and dairymen are thoroughly alarmed over the situation. A strange malady which has baffled the state veterinarians, and which is attributed to the nature of the lake bottom grasses and other local conditions, is the cause.

Yesterday nine valuable Jersey cows died within several minutes after being taken sick, and the symptoms were such as have never been encountered before in Utah. The closest Dr. A. C. Young, state veterinarian, has come to a diagnosis of the disease is to report that it slightly resembles anthrax, a fatal and highly contagious disease compile of highly contagious disease, capable of transmission to the human consumers of the milk of cows thus afflicted. If the disease proves anthrax extensive quarantine of Utah county dairies will result. antine of Utah county dairies will result.

After going over the pasture ground used by many dairies, Dr. Young remarked that there was cause enough to kill every cow along the lake and to send all Provo to the hospitals. He reports that the cows feed in marsh lands and swamps heavily infected with bacteria of almost every nature. He found the cows of several dairies drinking slough water containing the refuse from the Provo
